Jet Seaplane Explodes

Carried Four Men, One Body Recovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's new Sea Master, a huge jet seaplane with a speed of 600 miles an hour, exploded in flight Wednesday and fell in shattered pieces into Chesapeake Bay.

Three employees of the Glenn L. Martin Co. of Baltimore, the plane's builder, and a naval officer were aboard when the four-engine craft broke up on a test flight. One body, attached to a parachute, was recovered but had not been identified.

Sections of the seaplane sank in from 50 to 60 feet of water at the mouth of the Potomac River in the lower reaches of the bay. Also lost were the complete navigational, bombing and communications installations planned for the new aircraft, whose tail assembly was three stories high.

Witnesses said the SeaMaster was trailing heavy black smoke a few moments before it exploded "right in the middle." It appeared to break into several pieces, and one parachute was seen to open. There was another blast reported as the nose hit the water.

"If anybody lived through that it would be a miracle," reported Eng. S.C. Tommy Petty, aboard a Coast Guard boat searching for survivors and pieces of the wreckage.

The Navy and the aircraft company issued the following list of those aboard:

Maurice Bernhard, Townsend, Md., pilot.

Herbert Scudder, Chase, Md., senior flight engineer.

James Hentschel, Baltimore, flight test engineer.

Lt. Cmdr. Victor Utgoff, 38, Pinney Point, Md., Navy project officer.

The SeaMaster, the hottest seaplane ever to come off the drawing boards, made its first flight July 14, powered by four Allison J71 jet engines with afterburners for extra power on takeoff. It was designed to cruise at 40,000 feet, capable of carrying a 30,000-pound payload.

Its two primary missions, according to the Navy, would be mine-laying and photographic reconnaissance. It was also strong enough to carry atomic bombs, and some engineers felt it could be adapted to a nuclear-powered engine.

The giant craft took off from the Martin Airport north of Baltimore at 1:37 p.m. A civilian tug boat crew reported it struck the water about two hours later, at 3:25 p.m.

One eyewitness of the accident, D. H. Buus, air controller man in the tower at Webster Field, north of Point Lookout, Md., said he saw smoke and a "big explosion." He estimated the altitude of the seaplane at about 5,000 feet.

Another eyewitness aboard a fishing vessel said he saw one body thrown clear and a parachute open.

The SeaMaster is 134 feet long with a swept-back wingspan of 100 feet.

A boat with divers reached the scene of the crash about 5 p.m., the Navy announced, but it had no details on diving operations. It also said a salvage barge was en route from Norfolk, Va., and was due at the scene about daybreak.

The SeaMaster had had more than 50 hours in the air without incident. It has been acclaimed by the Navy as promising remarkable developments in air-sea power.

The plane that crashed was the first experimental model; another SeaMaster has been built and is ready for testing.

Soviet Bomber Force Grows Formidable, Jane's Claims

LONDON (Thursday) (P) — Russia will soon have a "formidable bomber striking force" to challenge Western superiority in the air, an authoritative aircraft surveyor said Wednesday.

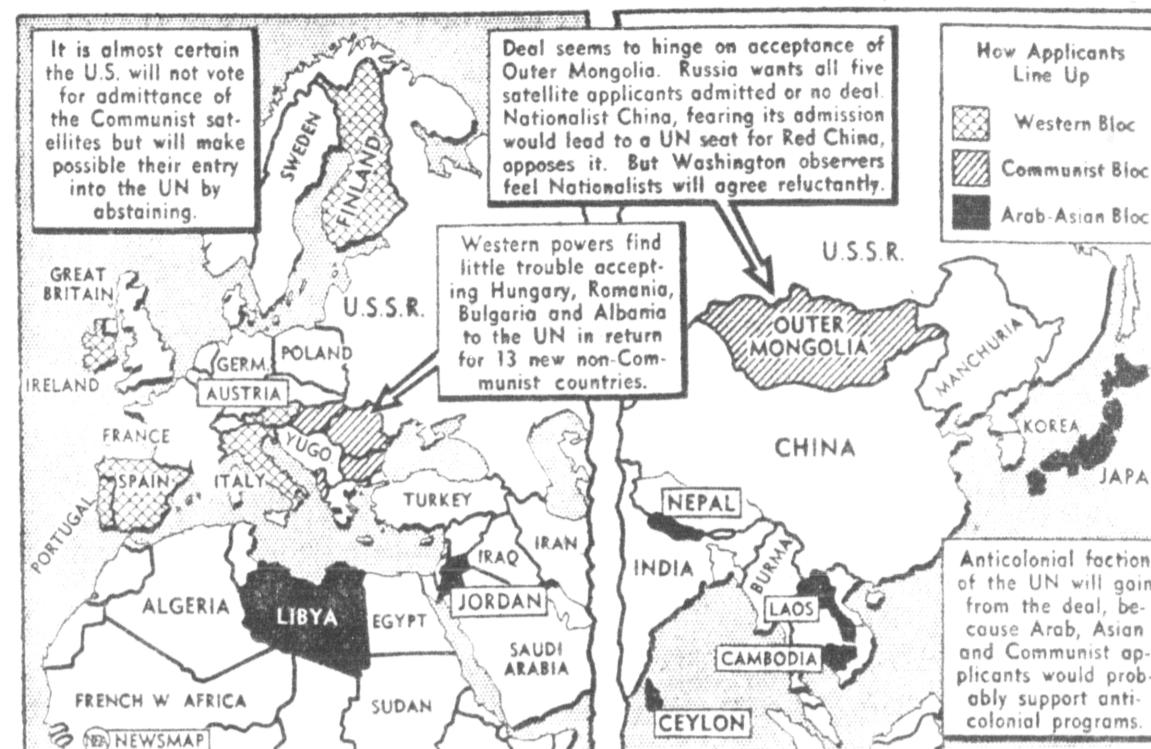

The latest edition of "Jane's All the World's Aircraft" said a Red Air display in Moscow last July has "done more than any previous one to shatter any remaining complacency in responsible circles in the West."

Jane's said the newest Red warplanes were being produced in 300 factories scattered from the Polish border to the Far East.

It mentioned especially the latest "Type 37" four-jet heavy bomber believed capable of carrying an atom bomb—and "Type 39" medium twin-jet bomber.

The Russians briefly unveiled formations of these in July. Jane's said, as well as an "even more advanced" development of the MIG17 jet fighter, successor to the MIG15 used by the Communists in Korea. It estimated the MIG17 maximum speed at 745 miles an hour, a range of 4,320 miles and a normal combat load of 9,820 pounds.

"The capacity for production on load of 9,820 pounds.

UN APPROACHES WORLD-WIDE REPRESENTATION Eighteen countries are seeking admission to the United Nations en bloc. If they are accepted, the UN would have as members every self-governing nation except Switzerland, Red China and the six governments that control the Communist and non-Communist portions of Germany, Korea and Viet Nam. The League of Nations could never boast so many members—78. Newsmap above spots the applicants and signifies in which political camp they would stand. It also locates Outer Mongolia, one of the Soviet "republics," whose candidacy as an "independent" nation represents a possible stumbling block to the plan broached by Canada.

U.N. Committee Votes To Admit 18 Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — An overwhelming majority of the United Nations Wednesday approved a proposal which would bring 18 new members into the U.N. under a package deal.

By a vote of 52 in favor, 3 against and 5 abstentions, the 60-member U.N. Special Political Committee called on the Security Council to consider favorably the applications of the 18 countries, including 5 Communist states.

Only Nationalist China and Cuba opposed the resolution, which will be submitted to a General Assembly session Thursday morning. The United States, France, Belgium, Greece and Israel abstained.

Sponsors of the resolution, including Canada and 27 other nations, were delighted at the outcome. They said they would have been satisfied with a two-thirds majority, the margin required for final Assembly approval.

The 11-nation Security Council will tackle the membership question probably early next week.

The 28-nation resolution calls on the council to report on the 18 applications to the General Assembly, which has now advanced its target date for adjournment to next Friday.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the U.S. delegate, told the committee his country would abstain both in the Special Political Committee on the 28-nation resolution and in the Security Council on the five Communist applicants—Outer Mongolia, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Albania.

The Soviet Union has said it will veto the 18 non-Communist states if the Communist states fail to make the grade. The 18 are Ceylon, Cambodia, Japan, Laos, Libya, Nepal, Jordan, Italy, Portugal, Spain, Ireland, Austria and Finland.

An official of the Communist Hungarian trade mission here and his wife survived the explosion, police said. They were identified as Istvan Szentes, 29, and Eve Szentes, 23.

Other possibilities investigated by police were that a dud aerial bomb from World War II exploded under the building into which 12 families moved two weeks ago; that gas seeped from a city main into the structure or that a tenant had unlawfully tried to tap the gas main.

The explosion, at 5:40 a.m., was the worst disaster in West Germany's vast postwar building program. All that was left of the structure was a 20-foot high mound of broken concrete and splintered wood.

The holdup man, muffled in a Haloween mask and heavy scarf, shepherded the eight employees into a records vault as they arrived for work. He forced Vice President George Allen to open the money vault, led him up in the basement and left in cash register huber's hardtop automobile.

The car was found several hours later parked five blocks away.

Also found later was a farewell note:

"How's this for a joke? If your squad car hadn't such a squeak I'd have had a tough time."

Sauber, Ordered To Take Vacation, To Fight Charges

CHICAGO (P) — Ernest J. Sauber, personal economic adviser, Dr. Gabriel Hauge, and Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors.

TAXI SITUATION BELOW THE BORDER

MEXICO CITY (P) — The city is rushing plans to let private automobiles operate as taxis during the Christmas rush because of a taxi cab scarcity. Cars must be 1951 or later models and drivers must have good records.

NEW YORK (P) — A new process that is reported to keep food fresh for several days without refrigeration has been demonstrated here. A minute quantity of the antibiotic aureomycin is used to inhibit bacterial growth, a chief cause of food spoilage.

William McKinley enlisted as a private in the Civil War and came out as a major. He was the last president to have served in that war.

Sauber returned to his office Wednesday but would not sit in his usual chair behind his desk.

Questioned by newsmen, Sauber said he would retain a lawyer to help him answer the charges.

"In my opinion, I can answer the charges and justify my position," he said.

"It's not a question of denying something. There are two sides to every story. I am being given an opportunity to present my side."

It was rumored in Washington that Sauber had close ties with the Chicago Democratic organization and that he had incurred the displeasure of Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.).

FARM DECLINE

WASHINGTON (P) — The number of farms dropped by nearly 600,000 from 1950 to 1954, the Census Bureau reported Wednesday. However, the size of the average farm increased by 26.9 acres.

The average farm last year was 242.2 acres, larger than at any time in the past century, the bureau said in a report on findings of the 1954 census of agriculture.

Jane's estimated the Russian medium bomber had a maximum speed of 559 miles an hour, a range of 7,104 miles and a maximum bomb load of 19,844 pounds.

The U.S. Air Force heavy intercontinental eight-jet bomber has a maximum speed of more than 600 miles an hour but range and bomb carrying details are still secret.

Jane's estimated the Russian medium bomber had a maximum speed of 559 miles an hour, a range of 7,104 miles and a maximum bomb load of 19,844 pounds.

The expansion in farm size "has been associated with the decline in the number of small farms and with the rapid mechanization of agriculture," the bureau reported.

Attlee Resigns As Labor Party Head

Engstrom Draws 180-Day Suspension

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (P) — State Police Capt. Henry W. Engstrom of Sterling drew a 180-day suspension Wednesday after admitting charges brought against him by State Police Chief Phil M. Brown.

Chairman Henry A. Gardner of Chicago, who announced the decision of the Police Merit Board, said the board would have been inclined to discharge Engstrom except for his record as a police officer. The other board members are Raphael Yalden of Rockford and G. William Cullen of Springfield.

The suspension was dated Nov. 4, making Engstrom eligible to return to duty May 2. He made no comment on the decision.

Brown refused to discuss what Engstrom's duties would be when the suspension is over.

Engstrom, who was battalion commander of police Districts 1 and 7, was suspended by Brown Nov. 4 for conduct unbecoming an officer, disrespect for superiors and insubordination.

The hearing, which had been expected to produce some fire works, turned out to be a tame affair with no one called to testify in view of Engstrom's surprising plea.

At the time of his suspension by Brown, a group of ministers in Bureau County rallied to Engstrom's defense and raised the question of whether his anti-gambling activities had embarrassed local and county law enforcement officials.

No mention of gambling was made at the hearing. Engstrom's attorney, Norman Jones of Springfield, at the outset entered the guilty plea but said the charges were "not of sufficient gravity" to warrant discharge of Engstrom, who has been on the state police force since 1950.

Jones recommended a suspension of 120 days from Wednesday and this was agreed to by Asst. Atty. Gen. Ben Schwartz, representing the State Public Safety Department which has jurisdiction over state police.

Schwartz said if Engstrom had not admitted the charges and instead had fought them, he would have demanded his dismissal.

But the Merit Board said it was not bound by the agreement and could "not take the accusations lightly." Gardner said some of the offenses could cause "incalculable damage" to the state force.

German police reported they were investigating the possibility political assassins were responsible for the blast which trapped sleeping tenants.

Among the dead was the Slovak-born architect-owner of the building, Matthes Stenczel, 38, and police were attempting to learn whether he had political enemies in Slovak exile circles.

An official of the Communist Hungarian trade mission here and his wife survived the explosion, police said. They were identified as Istvan Szentes, 29, and Eve Szentes, 23.

Other possibilities investigated by police were that a dud aerial bomb from World War II exploded under the building into which 12 families moved two weeks ago; that gas seeped from a city main into the structure or that a tenant had unlawfully tried to tap the gas main.

Silks Steal Limelight In Resort Fashions

Sheath, Wide It's All Silk

BY GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Lustrous silks sparkle in resort collections this year, foretelling the appearance of more silks for spring.

Variety is nearly endless. Thin, crisp silks, soft silks, silk tweeds, wide-ribbed ottomans, pure silk faille for both suits and coats. Silk broadcloth and silk taffeta that's light weight and comes both printed and plain. Silk chiffon and silk organdie, thin and crisp.

These silks are cut into shirtwaist dresses, suits, coats, after-five and evening dresses, blouses and simple sheaths. They are used for coat and jacket linings and skirts.

We show here two examples from the resort collection of Mollie Parans. Late-day dress in Persian block print silk surah (left) has square neckline that's cut high in front and deeper at back. Full skirt is belted over its own petticoat.

This same designer uses beige silk and brown-toned silk surah print (right) in dress and straight-lined coat. Coat is lined in print of the dress.

LEADS YOUNG DEMS—David Bunn of Denver, Colo., has been elected president of the Young Democratic Clubs of America. The 30-year-old insurance man was chosen at the group's convention in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Pittsfield Club Has Xmas Feast, Gift Exchange

PITTSFIELD—The Business and Professional Woman's club held its most enjoyable meetings of the year at the Community Center on Monday night, with Mrs. Mildred Towell, president, in charge of the business session. The meeting was in the nature of a Christmas party with a gift exchange.

Sixty members and guests were seated at the dinner table and served a turkey dinner. Group singing of Christmas carols followed the dinner. Appearing on the musical program Miss Minnie Bauch sang two Christmas songs in German. Mrs. Charles Shaw, guest speaker, delighted the group with her inimitable rendition of the Christmas Story from the Gospel of St. Luke, and other Christmas stories. Mrs. Shaw is a talented reader who has appeared on many club programs here and elsewhere, and often amazes her audiences by giving her readings and long book reviews without any reference to notes. It is considered a privilege to secure her for club programs.

At the business session Mrs. Cindy Miller was voted membership in the club. A collection was taken for their Christmas project, amounting to $31, which will be sent to "Care" for the club's Christmas offering.

High school students have now organized a Junior Red Cross chapter to which all students in both the high school and grades of the city will be eligible, with the members of the governing board selected from the high school students.

Officers named are Judy Watson, president; Patty Jeffries, vice-president, and Mary Bauer, secretary-treasurer.

Representatives from each class in the high school selected were: freshmen: Leonard Littan, Sharon Riddle, Grace Ann Ruhe and Bob Peecher; sophomore: Kay Goodin, Kent Sanderson, Jim Kerr and Patty Jeffries; junior: Mary Bauer, Judy Watson, Janet Gardener and Mars Burgess; seniors: Beverley Harris, George Curry, Linda Claus and Paul Payne.

The group has several projects in view for the post-holiday season.

LORSTER PINK

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—If the pink and vermillion tints on San Diego zoo flamingos seem striking, it's because they have been fed ground lobster shells regularly for two years.

Dennis L. Fox, professor of marine biochemistry at the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography, explained that some of the pigment of the lobster shells had been retained in the flamingos to brighten up their coloring. The ground shells were in addition to the usual diet of grass pellets, millet, rice, and dried flies.

KEY NOTE

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—An elderly woman who had spent the night at a local motel noted the return postage guarantee on the tag to her room key.

"Could I just give you the key now?" she asked the desk clerk, "rather than mail it back to you."

Keep Office Gift Exchange Inexpensive

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The office gift exchange can be awful or it can be fun. It can be embarrassing or it can give a lot of pleasure.

Probably the very first requirement, whether it's done in an organized way or is strictly on a best-friend basis, is the requirement of good taste. No gift presented in the office should be in the least expensive, even a marble's bargain you found steps over the bounds because the recipient doesn't know it was a bargain and feels humiliated about he made offering.

Some offices get around this possibility by having a tree and having each person buy one gift under a dollar for a name drawn out of a hat. Other offices have a crab-bag gift exchange. In buying offices, where the gifts are likely to come flowing from all sources, a card or two sent to a friend's home is less likely to get lost in the avalanche.

In a tennis pool or a room full of participants, where all of the women are equally friendly, it is perfectly permissible to give the same small remembrance to each woman. This can be a fistful of the pack of cigarette fanciful wrapped, or it can be some seasonal prettiness, such as a pine cone.

Be sure, if you have one special friend among a group of women, that your more important gift to her is not presented in the office gift exchange.

Many of the cosmetics manufacturers wisely play for the office gift buyers by doing up their packages! One manufacturer has packaged his so that they don't require gift dusting powder in a seasonally bright package.

Office gift exchanges can be annoying or they can be fun, depending on techniques and costs. One economical, but welcome gift, is dusting powder in a fancy, no-wrap box.

GREAT Circle

BY ROBERT CARSE

Distributed by NEA. © 1955 by Robert Carse.

THE STORY: Capt. Jered Naish, master of the merchantman Morgan, has returned to his sweetheart, Phoebe Proctor, in Salem. They are to be married soon. Captain Naish and his father are having dinner with Phoebe's parents after father, Capt. Sam Proctor, and Jered's father are ship-owner partners.

II

CAPT. JERED NAISH went to bow over—Mrs. Proctor's hand and wish her good evening and then to greet the children. The latter were shy with him, he noted, and in particular the half-grown girls, Diane, Hepzibah and Carol. They somehow envied Phoebe, while the boys, since he had the rank of captain, had automatically put him among all other ship masters; to be considered stern and remote and treated with awe.

Mrs. Proctor was a Morgan from Beverly, and in her day said to be quite a beauty. But she had suffered severely from malaria, the same disease that had killed his mother some years ago, and her arms, her throat and face were gaunt, her skin tight, the eye sockets almost cavernous. She refused a glass of Madeira when Phoebe offered it to her and spoke with impatience of the fact that supper was late because of the absence of his father and her husband.

"But here they are, dear," Phoebe said. The two men were in the front doorway. "May we go to the table?" Mrs. Proctor said at once.

"After we've had a quick grog," Captain Proctor said. "It's been a long day, and Phillip and I stand in need of it. How are you, Jered? I see that your lass has already tended to you."

"I'm well, sir," he said, and grimaced. But he was forced to notice how tired, how wan and old his father looked. He stepped to his side and took his arm.

"You're all right, Father?" "A bit whipped out," Phillip Naish said. "But some of Sam's rum will do the trick for me. You have the best of the bargain when you're away at sea. It's the counting-house business that wears a feller to the bone."

"Gentlemen, please," Mrs. Proctor said in her high voice. "The children are half-starved. If you'd like, bring your quantums to the table."

The main dish at supper was boiled chicken stuffed with bay scallops, and Jered was forced to reflect after his stay of some months in France that Salem cooking would remain forever unchanged if not drab.

CAPTAIN PROCTOR stood before the screened, empty fireplace in the library with his coat tails lifted out of habit. He had filled and refilled the glasses with the Napoleon brandy, and fine sweat beads were on the pouches under his eyes, his eyes shone. "No sense delaying," he said. "Here's the point of what your father and me want to tell you, Jered. We have a ship for you to sail. Right now, right tonight, in fact."

"Which one, Jered?" Jered said, not completely surprised.

"The Obis," his father said. "She's that old New Bedford bark that was once a privateer," Jered said. "What's wrong with the Mercury? And why such a hurry to send me back to sea?"

Captain Proctor gave his short laugh. "Solid questions," he said. "We've bought the Obis and converted her for the whaling trade. Cap'n John Whiting of Nahant went master of her, but just today when she was clearing Boston he took sick. Doctor says it's something severe with his innards. She's at anchor in President Roads while she waits a new master."

"I'm no whaler man," Jered said with anger. "Neither have I any liking for the trade."

"Jered, the money's no longer in the merchant vessels," his father said. "Whaling's where it lies."

"So I've heard tell," Jered said.

"I've heard tell, too," he said,

"that down to New York they're experimenting with a new type of clipper in the form of a full-riggered vessel. It'd make sense if you'd offer me one of her type.

A whaler's not to my knowledge. Might as well offer me one of those crank-up, side-wheel steamers the man was trying to sell here. Aren't there a plenty of other masters to sail the Obis?"

"Not that we can find in the moment or particularly trust,"

Captain Proctor said. "The chil-pers are still in the future, Jered. And as for the steamers, they're a joke. Time you're in again we'll talk clipper. Don't go worrying at all about what you lack of whaling. Eleazar Cupp is to be your first mate."

Jered Naish hit his hands against his knees with force. "How long a voyage?" he said. "Two years, maybe a mite more," his father murmured.

"Have you spoken to your wife of this yet, sir?" He had turned to stand squarely in front of Proctor.

"Not as yet, son," Captain Proctor put his broad hands on Jered's shoulders. His glance was affectionate, warm. "We reckoned that it was for you to bring to Phoebe alone. She's a sailor's daughter. Put her the case straight, without palaver from her mother."

"I'm your man," Jered said, a constriction in his throat.

"Lad, I must say this," his father slowly said. "You're young and hasn't figured out full just how absence from home is part of a sailor's life. For certain, you can't tell it to Phoebe. And you can't say to her could we find another fitting master to take your place, the Obis would sail without you."

"What's wrong with Eleazar Cupp?" Jered said from the last of his desire for defense. "He's Salem-born and bred and a master in his own right."

"When you come to ship with him," Captain Proctor said hard-voiced, "you'll find that Eleazar's not the feller you remember. He had considerable trouble in the Arctic on his last voyage."

PHOEBE was alone in the screen parlor, a piece of embroidery on her lap. But from the head of the stairs Jered heard a faint creaking and was aware that her mother waited and listened. He took Phoebe's arm without word and led her into the garden. He kissed her before he could bring himself to speak.

"I must go to sea tonight," he said.

"In that whaler, the Obis," she said. "I guessed as much. The venture means an enormous amount to them. The company affairs haven't been going at all well in the regular fashion. How long will we be apart?"

He shook her from side to side, in a torment of longing. "Two years, and it might be more. Phoebe, say the word and I'll refuse them. They can find some other man than me."

"No," she said. "They need you, and they trust you. And with you as master, she'll come home with what will amount to a fortune. Go ahead, Jered. Don't let's forget who we are. I mean, our ties to them."

"Two years," he said hoarsely, "after four days at home. You should have fallen for some Lynn shoe merchant."

Welsh And Luppino Share Top College Offensive Honors

NEW YORK (P)—Navy's George Welsh and Arizona's Art Luppino shared individual offensive honors of major college football for the 1955 season.

Welsh, who also won the passing title, topped the Arizona junior by 35 yards in the battle for total offensive honors.

Welsh had a season's total of 1,348 yards in nine games according to figures released Wednesday by the NCAA Service Bureau. Luppino picked up 1,313 in 10 games.

All of Luppino's yardage was on the ground which gave him the rushing crown for the second straight year.

Michigan State's All-American Earl Morrall was the No. 1 man in average gain for rushing-passing plays with 9.1 yards. All-American Howard Howard (Hepalong, Cassidy of Ohio State) figured in the most rushing-passing plays—24—one more than John Majors of Tennessee.

Alexander Splits Pair At S. Jville

South Jacksonville grade school split with visiting Alexander Tuesday night. In the lightweight game South Jville paced by Rice's 8 points won 26-21.

In the second contest there was one too many Anderson and Johnson for the heavyweights to vie with.

Johnson led scorers with 27, followed by Anderson's 17 for Alexander. The scoring was fairly evenly divided among Jville basketeers. Wells was the top man with 10 markers.

Freshman 'A' Team Romps Taylorville

Coach Al Rosenberger's freshman A team started the season off right by downing Taylorville in the local bowl last night 62-23.

Hudson, Keller and Bone all scored in the double figures to pace the Jville attack.

The junior Crimson's passing looked real good and the full court press was more than Taylorville could handle.

JHS lost the B game 41-34. Wells and Woodward hit for 10 points apiece in the B game.

Marquette Downs Valparaiso 89-75

MILWAUKEE (P)—Center Terry Rand with 31 points led Marquette's basketball team in a second half surge Wednesday night that overcame Valparaiso University, 89-75.

It was the second straight victory for the Warriors who found themselves tied with the Crusaders 38-38 at the end of the first half.

The Crusaders managed to keep it even for the first six minutes of the second half but then the 6-8 Rand pushed in two fast baskets and Marquette was on the move and stretched out to a quick 57-49 lead.

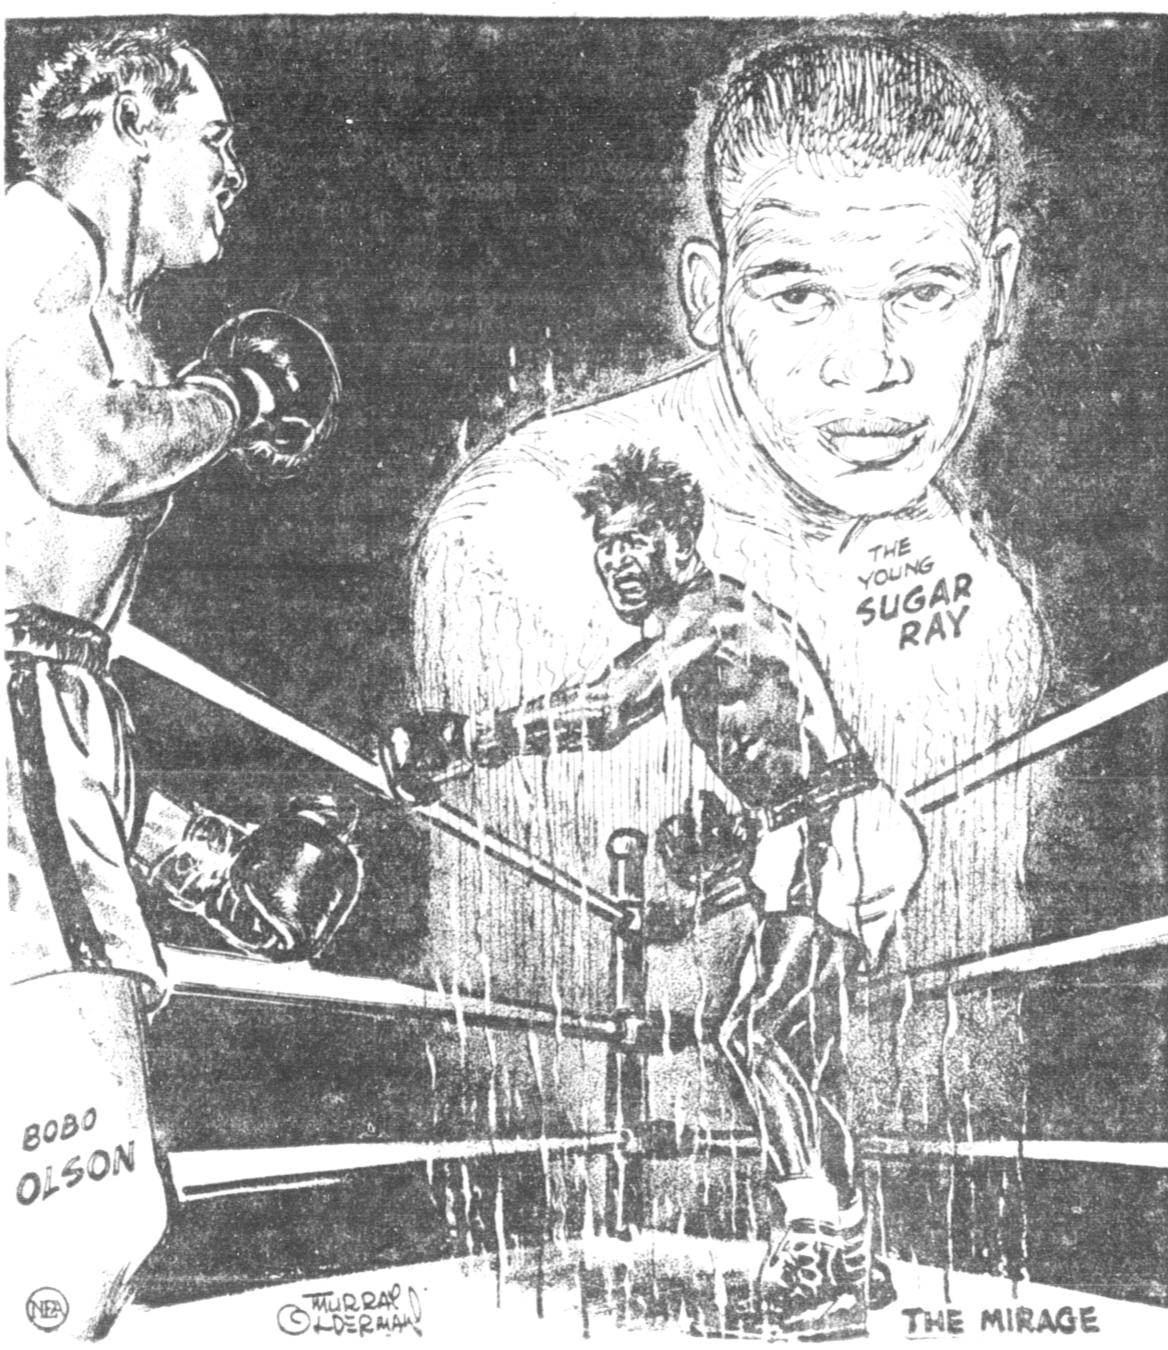

TEXAS U. COACH WILL FULFILL CONTRACT

MIDLAND, Tex. (P)—Football Coach Ed Price of the University of Texas spiked rumors that he would resign with a statement Wednesday that he would fulfill his contract that has two years to run.

He made the announcement following a conference with Tom Sealy, chairman of the Board of Regents of the university.

Price, whose teams the past two years have had poor records, flew here from Austin for the conference following reports that he had resigned at a meeting of the Board of Regents in Houston last week.

OR IS IT 'MERE AGE'?

SPORTS TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (P)—Ray Robinson will make a bid to regain the world middleweight championship Friday night in Chicago, assuming that he does not come up, or down, with some mysterious malady overnight.

Sugar Ray has been suspended otterer than a bird cage for failure to be where he was supposed to be under terms of contracts, and two of his three bouts with Bobo Olson, including the one scheduled Friday, had to be deferred because he reported injuries, although he escaped suspension in those instances.

He came up with an aching back on the first occasion, in 1952, but a few weeks later he polished off Bobo with neatness. He had knocked out Olson in 12 rounds in 1956.

Friday's bout originally was scheduled for Nov. 24, but Robinson reported he had suffered a sprained ankle in training.

In fact, from his record of injuries suffered in training it would seem that Robinson insisted on working out with Gargantua. At various times he has yelled "ouch" because of his sacroiliac, a sprained ankle, an injured hand and a bad shoulder, and asked that fights be postponed.

Despite numerous suspensions, though, Sugar Ray was a remarkably busy fighter in his hey-day. It was a case of suspended animation, you might say. In 1950 he participated in 19 fights. In 1951 he had 11, then suddenly dropped down to 3 in the first six months of 1952 before announcing his retirement.

He was absent from the ring for 30 months, and that fact is the prime basis for argument concerning Friday night's encounter.

Robinson justly is rated one of the greatest fighters, pound for pound, who ever lived.

But those 30 months gathering ring rust are bound to have taken their toll. He was rather pathetic in his second comeback fight this year, in which he lost to Ralph "Tiger" Jones. In his last outing he outpointed Rocky Castellan, but he was oh so tired, and at times it seemed his legs just wouldn't hold him up. And that bout went only 10 rounds.

At 35, Robinson's age, the legs ain't what they used to be even in the college Hawks close their 1955-56 basketball season Ed Crenshaw will own practically every scoring record in the school. The 6' 3" forward is a graduate of Summer High School in St. Louis, and was named to the "All-State Team" in the state prep tournament in his senior year.

Crenshaw already holds the individual scoring mark for a single season, 564 set last year the most field goals per single season, 207 set last year; and the most free throws per single season, 150 set last year. At present Crenshaw's sights are set on the all-time Q. C. scoring mark for most points in a career, a record now held by Gene Runde. Runde scored 1282 points in a year's play and Crenshaw is now within 200 points of that mark.

Quincy College basketball followers realize that Crenshaw is the Hawks' scoring star and has been for at least two years. But Crenshaw is perhaps the most unpredictable scoring star in basketball. His court play is so smooth and his movements so graceful that his entire action goes almost completely unnoticed. Seldom does he score as many 30 points in a single game but one can scarcely remember any time in the last three years when he scored less than 20 points in a game.

During a game Crenshaw rarely hits the scoring streak that is so typical of most high scorers. He usually spaces seven or eight field goals so widely apart, along with six or seven free throws, that score keepers many times check and recheck their total after a game to be sure "Easy Ed" had actually posted in his expected 20 or 25 points.

Although he is better known as a scorer, Crenshaw's value to the Hawks is not restricted to his goal-making ability.

He pulls off more than his share of rebounds in spite of a lean frame that does not lend itself to battling under the boards with men of a more husky stature. And as the cool head Crenshaw displays under pressure serve as an inspiration to his com-mate, and may account for the many one and two point victories of last year's team.

Dick Briggs Of Greenfield Makes 'All Southern'

Dick Briggs, senior at Greenfield Community High School, has been honored for his outstanding play this year by being placed on the "All-Southern" Illinois football team selected by the Chicago Herald American. Twenty-four players were singled out from Illinois high schools situated below 40 degrees latitude on the map. Briggs also received outstanding commendation on the All-State team. The 6 ft. 170 pounder was named to a guard position although he also operated at fullback for Greenfield after being shifted late in the season. On defense he was a very effective line backer.

Crenshaw Within 220 Points Of All Time Record At QC

Unless some sort of a minor miracle prevents it, when the Quincy College Hawks close their 1955-56 basketball season Ed Crenshaw will own practically every scoring record in the school. New York Bond Market

NEW YORK (P)—Selected rails and industrials moved up while utilities declined in an irregular bond market Wednesday.

U. S. Treasury securities lost ground for the third successive day with weakness concentrated in intermediates.

Volume declined to $4,150,000 per value on the New York Stock Exchange from $4,850,000 Tuesday.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (P)—The stock market made a late retreat Wednesday after spending most of the session in a thoroughly mixed condition.

The split trend was featured by strength in aircrafts and weakness in railroads.

Prices changed widely at the outset, but the bulk of the list posted small gains or losses.

Currently the stock market is in a curious situation, according to those who like to follow market movements through charts of the averages.

Take the Associated Press average of 60 stocks as a yardstick. Last Monday the average worked its way up to $181.50, equal to the old record high established Sept. 23. That was just before the major reaction that tided off on news of the President's illness. On Tuesday the average remained unchanged.

The fact that the average was unable to break through and establish a new closing high was disconcerting to chartists.

At least some of the selling Wednesday was traced to disappointment over the action of the averages as they reflected the state of the market itself.

The AP average of 60 stocks Wednesday was down 60 cents at $180.90 with the industrial component off 20 cents, railroads lower by $1.70, and utilities off 10 cents.

Business amounted to 2,480,000 shares as compared with 2,540,000 shares traded Tuesday.

The American Stock Exchange was mixed on volume of 980,000 shares, compared with Tuesday.

WHEAT MARKS GAINS 3RD STRAIGHT DAY

By WILLIAM FERRIS

CHICAGO (P)—Wheat continued to roll upward on the Board of Trade Wednesday, marking the third straight day this week of advances. The gains Wednesday were larger than in the previous sessions.

Where wheat had gone ahead all by itself Tuesday, it was joined by rye Tuesday. The latter grain often takes its cue from wheat. Other cereals were never able to get anywhere, closing with small gains and losses.

Wheat closed 1 1/2-3 1/2 higher, corn 1/2 lower to 1/4 higher, oats unchanged to 1/4 lower, rye 1 to 2 1/2 higher, soybeans unchanged to 1/4 higher and lard unchanged to get anywhere, closing with small gains and losses.

It was the new crop wheat futures, laggards in the two previous sessions, which set the pace on the upturn. Both July and September wheat gained three cents or more.

Among the old crop months December continued to give the strongest display.

Buying in new crop wheat stemmed almost entirely from a report Agriculture Secretary Benson may favor supporting "top quality" 1954 crop wheat at 90 per cent of parity. Wheat currently is supported at 82 per cent of parity for all grades.

Soybeans showed the easiest trend during the day. They never lost much ground and recovered in the closing minutes. The easiness developed despite firmness in cash soybean meal, selling at $50.00 a ton, and was blamed on reports of a slight increase in country offerings of cash beans.

Formosa was granted $5,502,000 by the International Cooperation Administration to buy American soybeans.

Learning To Talk Again! That's Jacksonville's Job When Dial Service Starts

By BIRCH B. RIDGWAY

We're going to have cafeteria service on our telephone system beginning Sunday, Dec. 18.

When you want a number, reach for it! If the right party fails to come on the line, put the blame where blame belongs. Don't try to shoulder it on a repentent operator—she won't be there anymore.

The dial system is almost upon us. More than 8,500 subscribers, and that includes their families from the baby crib on up, might as well vow now to become self-reliant. They'll have to be steady-handed, clear-eyed and know their numbers when the metallic dial tone replaces the "Number Please" of hard working human operators.

Memory cannot be relied upon any more, at least for a time. All the numbers will be different.

Goodbye, Hello Girls!

It has been a long time since we've heard them called "Hello Girls." Many years also have elapsed since the Smart Alecs on jolly telephones on the sining room wall and wisecracked: "Is this you operator?" when she inquired a number.

"Piking" on party lines was as popular in its day as radio or television.

Older citizens of the Jacksonville community remember when the children fought for the right to listen in to their neighbors on the line. It was entertainment, education.

"Piking" was outwardly condemned by most respectable persons, but a polygraph (lie detector) test on the critics would have produced startling results.

Party lines even today afford a means of information concerning personal affairs of neighbors. But who wants to miss Jackie Gleason for a few paltry crumbs of gossip?

Slayton, Louisa McCurdie Buried Here Wednesday

Funeral services for Slayton F. and Louisa Fern McCurdie of Towanda, Ill., were held at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Gilham Funeral Home here. The Rev. Earl O'Neill of the Towanda Methodist Church officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. McCurdie were buried in Diamond Grove cemetery.

At the service, Mrs. Gladys Dawson sang, accompanied on the organ by Mrs. Lucille Chandler.

Caring for the floral tributes were Mrs. Roy Walker of Chicago, Misses Frances Moy, Marjorie Messer, Barbara Bailey and Lorene Moore of Bloomington, Mrs. Gene Walker, Mrs. Ralph Shelburn, Mrs. James Flynn Jr., Mrs. Wendell Peteish and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Walker Sr.

Six friends from Towanda served as casket bearers for Mr. McCurdie. Roy Walker of Chicago, Ralph Shelburn, James Flynn Jr., Wendell Peteish, Gene Walker and Ray Walker Sr., bore Mrs. McCurdie's casket.

Fernando Owings Dies Here Tuesday At Advanced Age

Fernando Owings of 214 West State street, maintenance man in the business district, died at 10:30 Tuesday night at the Lasley Nursing Home. Mr. Owings was 84 years of age.

Mr. Owings was born in Jacksonville March 12, 1870. His wife predeceased him in death in 1950.

He is survived by four children, Charles M. Owings, William Russell Owings, George Owings, and Mrs. Eliza Thomas, all living in Kansas City, Mo.

The body was taken to the Williamson Funeral Home. Arrangements are incomplete.

Rites Wednesday For Mrs. DeWan

NEW BERLIN—Funeral services were held at nine o'clock Wednesday morning for Mrs. Mary Knepler DeWan at St. Mary's Catholic church. The pastor, Reverend Father C. J. Fanning, was in charge.

Pallbearers were Henry Dorr, Leo Knepler, John Sullivan, Carl Knepler, Harry Wilcox, Jr., Elmer Knepler, Bruce Hatchcote and Jerry Sullivan, Jr.

Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

PROBATION REVOKED;
6 MONTHS AT FARM

The probationary period of Carl Fanning, 29, was revoked in county court Wednesday morning, after which he was sentenced to six months at the Vandalia State Farm by Judge Fenstermaker.

Fanning, a veteran of the Korean war, was charged in the petition with having broken terms of probation by drinking and carrying a pistol.

After a few tries at spinning the dial, some funny noises, some wrong numbers, Jacksonville will go on talking just the same.

Frances Hartmann Of Loami Dies; Services Saturday

LOAMI—Miss Frances Klor Hartmann, 49, died suddenly near 10 a.m. Wednesday at her residence here.

She was born Aug. 9, 1906, in Loami, the daughter of George J. and Emma E. Klor Hartmann. Surviving her are a sister, Mrs. Helen L. Howell, and a niece, Corinne Howell, both of Loami.

Miss Hartmann graduated from the University of Illinois in 1929. She taught in Bendl, Ill., from 1930 to 1945, then moved to Springfield, where she taught at Lanphier High School. Her last teaching position was at Kampsville.

The desk phone with an extension cord had its day, too. The shift from wall type to the upright stand phone brought a painful change in talking habits. Telephone patrons had to learn to talk sitting instead of standing—how's that for a radical change?

Business establishments were the first to install the new-fangled telephone that sat on stands or desks and weren't screwed to the wall. Homes followed suit, so that by the time the 20th century was well under control people were sitting down, relaxing while they talked on the telephone, instead of stretching to reach the mouthpiece.

Everybody can't be cosmopolitan all the time, in view of rapid changes in living and communication habits. A citizen of this area demonstrated that fact a number of years ago when he was called to the phone in a bank where he did business.

Down But Not Out

Now this old gentleman had a wall phone in his home. He had never talked on any other kind. He wasn't accustomed to sitting down to do his gabbing on the phone.

Bank employees and customers were surprised to see him drop to his knees, grasp the receiver firmly in his hand, and remain kneeling on the floor in complete ignorance of the nearby chair.

Dialing may come hard for some easy for others. If your fingers get tangled up in the dial wheel, think of the old fellow on his knees in the bank. He had to learn a few things about changing telephone technique, too.

New numbers, new or converted phones, the absence of helpful human operators, will overhaul the gentle art of conversation in the Jacksonville community.

The Illinois Telephone Co. has spent about $1,500,000 getting ready for the "Big Switch," which will take place at 12:01 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 18. At that time Jacksonville and its rural lines will discard an outmoded communication system for another of the most modern type. The change will be for the better, as many other growing cities have learned.

Get Ready To Help Yourself

Study the directions the telephone company has issued. Read the new telephone directory — both afford helpful information.

Get ready to help yourself; that's the way it's going to be for Jacksonville phone users who have survived other major telephone changes over the long history of the helpful little gadget.

Glasgow Store Closes After 75 Years In Family

GLASGOW — With the closing of Cowper's Store, in Glasgow recently, a business that was started over 75 years ago by the late Mrs. Jacob Pfenniger and has been in the family ever since passed out of existence.

The store, started by Mrs. Pfenniger in her home sometime after her marriage in 1858, was moved into its present building a few years after it had been in operation.

In 1904, Mrs. Pfenniger turned over the business to her son-in-law, Ben Cowper, who continued to operate the store until his death in 1943 after which his son, Estelle Cowper, conducted the business until its recent closing.

The store building, the lot on which it stands and the adjoining lot west of the store have been purchased to convert the building into a residence.

IT'S NO PART TIME JOB

So long as there is any prospect that President Eisenhower will run again in 1956, his health is bound to be a subject for political discussion. But it is a kind of argument that ought to be weighed with extreme care.

There is considerable concern among Democrats that the President's advisers will persuade him to run by convincing him he can function successfully as a sort of part-time Chief Executive.

In that connection, some opposition men now are privately contending that Republican leaders and the President's inner circle are trying to create a "false image" indicating he is once more in full control of the government.

The Democratic contention is that he is not, that the well-publicized goings and comings of administration officials, involving Gettysburg and Camp David, are just so much window dressing.

The argument, of course, is that this "impression" of firm presidential control might be made to serve a double purpose. For one, it might sell Mr. Eisenhower on the idea he can run the office on a greatly reduced basis. And it might satisfy the millions who like him as President that it is wise and proper to keep him in the job.

Fair appraisal forces one to conclude, however, that this argument breaks on the rock of fact.

Admittedly many Republicans are thinking wishfully about the President's 1956 intentions, and certainly doing little to discourage the notion he is increasingly active in his job. But Mr. Eisenhower himself made plain the moment he landed in Washington Nov. 11 that he would be compelled to ease his way back to his duties rather than "bulldoze" his way.

The stories emanating from Gettysburg and Camp David relate quite frankly the limited hours the President still is spending at work. They talk of his naps, his bridge games and other recreational pursuits.

Secondly, the President's deep sense of duty and responsibility makes it highly unlikely he would allow himself to be persuaded to run again if he were not wholly satisfied in his own mind he is fit for the essentials of the job. Mr. Eisenhower is not exactly a pawn in the hands of his advisers and party leaders.

By now he should know what constitutes the substance of his job. One suspects the American people can trust him to say "no" if he believes himself incapable of doing what a President is elected to do.

HAZARDOUS 20 PER CENT

The safety experts are in the habit of directing their remarks to all motorists in their campaigns to reduce highway fatalities. This is certainly advisable, since everyone needs to be prodded to stay on the alert when he gets behind the wheel. But evidence suggests that a general appeal isn't enough.

About 80 per cent of our traffic accidents are caused by only 20 per cent of the drivers, according to the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Company.

This 20 per cent more often than not shows a record of both repeated law violations and repeated accidents. Safety experts rate these people "accident prone" and doubt that fatality and injury totals will drop materially so long as they operate cars in their accustomed fashion.

Every car improvement designed for safety—better brakes, tires, power for acceleration in passing—is taken by the 20 per cent as invitation to new risks. As each new device widens the margin of safety, these drivers promptly close it again by pressing their luck at higher levels.

It's time the dangerous 20 per cent of drivers who cause four-fifths of the accidents got the special attention they deserve.

What Our Passion to 'Save Time' Does to Our Children

BY MURIEL LAWRENCE

Does your baby spend much time in his playpen? Do you keep your toddler in his stroller during shopping trips? Do you drive Johnny to school—or encourage him to use the school bus?

If your answer is "Yes" to any of these questions, I have some news for you.

Inactivity among our children is resulting in a serious decline in physical fitness. In a study recently made of some 50,000 youngsters in small city and suburban areas, nearly 60 per cent failed basic muscular tests.

The study, made by Dr. Hans Kraus of New York University-Belleview's Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation and B. Prudden Hirschland, declares, "Our mechanized life leads to physical inactivity"—and warns that American children's dependence on mechanical aids, school buses, passive entertainment like TV and movies has made them the inferiors of European youngsters in physical fitness.

The other day, I made it my business to ask Dr. Kraus what parents could do to improve this bad situation.

He had several ideas. First, he thinks we'd be wise to reduce use of playpens—and restore free play to babies. Second, he suggests that we unstrap toddlers from their strollers so that they can walk and help carry our groceries home from the store. Third, he urges that Johnny's own legs be used to transport him to and from school.

And to our sacred protests of traffic hazards to his life and limbs, Dr. Kraus argues that the answer is not surrender to traffic hazards but making highways safer for walking children. Says Dr. Kraus, "Our PTA groups could render great service by demanding protection for school routes so that children could be released to walk them without danger."

All of his ideas strike me as most sensible.

I wonder if we'll do one thing about them.

For the problem's not our "mechanized" life but our mechanized feelings. We American women are so hypnotized by male worship of the great God Speed that we don't register our own frenzied movement any more. We don't even take time to consider what our passion to "save time" is doing to us and children.

In America where women are imagined to be the freest, we are most slavishly bound by the trait of masculine nature—impotence. Until we realize how oppressed we are by it, we'll continue to rush children over use of their own bodies to get things done fast, fast, fast.

The World Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of the newly merged AFL-CIO pooh-pooh the idea they will try to form a labor party or capture one of the existing political parties. Nevertheless, that time may come.

Whether it happens—since the AFL and CIO, although now combined into the biggest labor organization in history, are just starting future factors now unpredictable.

Among the factors are: (1) whether they can stick together; (2) what changing times bring; (3) how influential they are in the political field as it now stands; (4) how well they increase their membership and can influence its political thinking; and (5) the possible personal ambitions of some of the leaders who now may have none.

Starting right away the combined AFL-CIO, claiming 15 to 16 million members, will be a far more powerful force in American politics than either separately.

Their new strength will get its first big test in the 1956 elections when and if they back one of the two candidates for president. But they will work in state and local politics too, and speak to Congress with one voice.

Some Republican politicians—particularly Sen. Goldwater of Arizona—seem to have misgivings about labor's support next year. The AFL and CIO backed Adlai Stevenson in 1952. Goldwater said Sunday the AFL-CIO "had no right" to endorse a presidential candidate in 1956.

President Eisenhower, who beat Stevenson in 1952, said in saluting the AFL-CIO Monday that labor organizations have a legitimate interest in politics. But he cautioned they should be sure they "accurately reflected" the thinking of minorities holding differing social, economic and political views."

The weakest spot in labor's political front—from the standpoint of its ability to use it utmost strength—is that the union leaders cannot order their members how to vote. But the AFL-CIO isn't going to spend all its energies directly in politics in the years immediately ahead.

It will try to organize millions of workers not now in unions. The bigger the AFL-CIO, the more potent its political weight.

Until they get a lot bigger than they are now—and test their power with the two present political powers—the leaders of the AFL-CIO are not likely to try for a labor party.

IMPORTANT NOTICETO*JACKSONVILLE TELEPHONE USERS

As you know, Jacksonville's telephone system will become automatic on December 18. Between December 10 and December 18, all orders involving installations, moves or changes of telephone instruments as to type or location will be taken as usual, but not processed until after December 18. The reason for this is, of course, that, as the date of the change-over draws closer, our employees in all departments must spend more and more time on tasks associated directly with the change-over. After December 18, all such orders will, of course, be taken care of as soon as possible.

Man Was Victim Of Drugs 7,000 Years Ago, Claim

By ROGER D. GREENE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ancient clay tablets unearthed in the desert sands of Mesopotamia disclose that man was a victim of drugs, the insidious habit-forming juice of the poppy, more than 7,000 years ago. Ninety years ago, a survey turned up 116 addicts in the town of Adrian, Mich., or 1 in 100 of the town's population. Ten years later, a survey of the State of Michigan showed that 1 in 160 residents was an addict.

Around the turn of the century, American mothers bought 750,000 bottles of opium-spiked soothing syrup a year to quiet their babies. One of every 400 Americans was an addict — four times as many women as men.

Narcotics were sold over the counter as freely as lemon drops or ephon salts. Except for local ordinances, the use of drugs was entirely legal in this country throughout the 19th century.

It was not until 1909 that Congress finally took alarm at the ugly growth of drug addiction and passed a law banning the importation of morphine or coca leaves — the raw material for cocaine — except for medical purposes. When the more stringent Harrison Narcotics Act was passed in 1914, there were 200,000 addicts in the United States.

How many are there now? No one knows for sure. Federal and state authorities are far apart, with estimates ranging all the way from less than 100,000 to more than a million. Now men addicts outnumber women nearly 4-to-1. Roughly 25,000 persons are arrested every year for narcotics violation.

Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger of the Federal Narcotics Bureau says reports gathered by his agency in a continuing study put the nationwide total at about 60,000 addicts.

The government figures for early this year list the 10 "worst cities" for addiction as New York, Chicago,

Los Angeles, Detroit, Cleveland, Washington D. C., San Francisco, Cincinnati, St. Louis and San Antonio, Tex. The "worst states" are New York, Illinois, California, Michigan, District of Columbia, Ohio, Texas, Missouri, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Dr. Rafael R. Gamso, medical superintendent at New York's Riverview Hospital, says that in a three-year period from 1952-1955, the hospital treated 1,183 addicts ranging from 13 to 21. Average age was 17.7.

Riverview, on an island in the Hudson River, is the only hospital in the country exclusively for teenage addicts. Sometimes known as "Devil's Island, U. S. A." the hospital treats 140-bed patients and 200 outpatients at a cost of $33.90 a day each, or nearly 4½ million dollars a year.

How can you spot a drug addict? "For one thing," says Anslinger, "they have a peculiar shuffle when they walk. And their eyes have a frozen stare with a pinpoint pupil when they're on a job. They freeze on whatever they're looking at, as though they were in a dream."

"They don't care about eating. When they do, they just eat sweets. They're never clean, always shabbily dressed. I've never seen a clean one yet. And — lord knows why, but they always have a lot of old papers stuck in their pockets. "My agents can spot 'em a mile off."

How long does it take to get "hooked" by the narcotics habit? Three days to two weeks, according to experts. The Federal Narcotics Bureau in a pamphlet entitled "The truth about drug addiction" adds this warning:

"The idea that an addict takes dope just to feel good is a mistake. He takes it to head off, for a little while, the terrible effects which he feels when he doesn't have the drug."

Similarly, the U. S. Army "Handbook on Narcotics" declares:

"There is no known cure for drug addiction. Death is the only sure release from the living hell into which an individual commits himself when, for a momentary thrill, he takes 'just one shot'."

Fatal Blows End Vienna Love That Endured NaziCamp

CHICAGO AP—A love match that began in old Vienna, lasted through 35 years of marriage and periods in Nazi prison camps, has ended.

A coroner's jury recommended Tuesday that Marcus Kammermann, 66, and Austrian importer-exporter be held to the grand jury on a charge of murdering his wife, Melvina, 55.

She died in a hospital Monday of injuries police said Kammermann inflicted with ash trays. When he came home and kissed his wife, she responded coldly and handed him some papers, saying,

"You've been a wonderful husband, and never done anything wrong but I have decided to have a man of my own choice."

Lehmann related that Mrs. Kammermann also had removed about heavy objects in the couple's apartment in fashionable Lake Shore Drive.

Kammermann, who speaks no English, told his story at the inquest through a policeman who "I lost my temper," the police spokesman German, Jacob Lehmann, may quote. "I claims that's good business."

"He told me they were childhood sweethearts in Vienna." Lehmann added. "They were married and were wealthy when the Nazis threw him in a Dachau concentration camp and his wife in the for a rolling pin. Just cut the Buchenwald camp. They were re-stocking feet off."

leased when they signed over all their property.

"They went to Bolivia where he built up another fortune as an importer and exporter. A revolution came and they fled, leaving everything. Two years ago they came to the United States and again he began building up considerable wealth."

Lehman went on to say that last Friday Kammermann returned from a seven weeks trip to Europe. When he came home and kissed his wife, she responded coldly and handed him some papers, saying,

"You've been a wonderful husband, and never done anything wrong but I have decided to have a man of my own choice."

Lehmann related that Mrs. Kammermann also had removed about heavy objects in the couple's apartment in fashionable Lake Shore

On Monday Lehman said Kam-mermann was about to leave the United States.

Kammermann spoke to him sharply about the paper he had written.

"I lost my temper," the police spokesman said.

Demands Right To Illinois Native, Husband Released By Red Chinese

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—W. L. Stanton, a 73-year-old retired construction worker, surprised Oklahoma County Treasurer W. T. (Bill) Hale Tuesday by demanding the right to pay taxes.

Hale said he had mailed a notice to Stanton telling the Oklahoma city pensioner his homestead exemption claim wiped out any tax assessment against his home. Stanton and his wife receive $100 a month in pensions.

Stanton insisted on paying the tax. His homestead exemption finally was reduced by $50 and Stanton paid $38.

He explained he and Mrs. Stanton have grandchildren and "I believe it is right to pay taxes so they can go to school."

BANK OFFERS MONEY BARGAIN

RUTLAND Vt. (AP)—The Killingworth Bank and Trust Co. is giving $1.05 for every $1 brought in—and they waited to catch a ship. Henkel said he and his wife had been living comfortably in the Shanghai apartment they had occupied for 10 years.

Asked if the Chinese Reds had ever attempted to brainwash them, Henkel replied:

"They'd have had one helluva time if they tried."

Henkel said the Communists started taking over all businesses in 1952 and that he was affected from the start. After his hides and skins business was closed, he did photocopying until his photographic paper ran out. He said he and his wife were not allowed out of the Shanghai area but their movements were not restricted in the city.

Waverly Cubs Receive Awards

WAVERLY—The Cub Scout Pack meeting was held in the high school gym Tuesday evening, Nov. 22. Dr. Lee was in charge of the meeting which opened with the pledge to the flag.

Den two was in charge of the award ceremony. After each scout had been presented with his award by one of his parents, a Scout from den two would shake his hand and repeat the Scout response.

The program ceremony was in charge of den one, who entertained very well with a tumbling act. The acrobatic program was as follows: front somersaults, back somersaults, frog stands, cart wheels, together somersaults, fountain and pyramid, by the entire group, interspersed with chest roll by Danny Duerer, back bends by Danny Duerer and Dana Caldwell, stands on heads by Danny Duerer and Vernon Miner and flip by Vernon Miner and Danny Duerer.

Those taking part on the program were Robert Lee, Steve Austin, Richard Jackson, Wayne Edwards, Gary Herford, Dana Caldwell, Danny Duerer, Gary Hale and the Den Chief Vernon Miner.

The meeting was concluded with a suggestion by Dr. Lee to change the meeting night to another than Tuesday on account of the basketball games, but it was not settled. An announcement will be made when and where the next meeting will be held.

FUEL EXHAUSTED?

SUFFOLK Va. (UPI)—A motorist out of gas here asked a passing driver for directions to the nearest filling station.

The passing driver — a policeman in a patrol car — pointed to one on the hill. The motorist started walking toward it. Before he reached it he was overhauled by the cop who noted that the gasless car contained 15 five-gallon jugs of illegal whiskey.

LUCKY, UNLUCKY

SAN JUAN P. R. (UPI)—One of the competitors in the second International Game Fish Tournament lost his upper plate in the Atlantic Ocean. "I'm lucky, though," he said. "I have another set at the hotel."

When he took his spare teeth out of a case, he dropped them on the rug. "Lucky they didn't hit the solid floor," he said. As he reached down to pick up the spare set he stumbled and stepped on them. They were shattered.

SOLE SURVIVOR

There was only one known survivor when an eruption of Mount Pelee destroyed the city of St. Pierre on Martinique Island on May 8, 1902. More than 30,000 other inhabitants were killed.

Okinawa has an area of approximately 485 square miles, or a little more than the area of Los Angeles.

"Best car manufactured in America today"

That's what Floyd Clymer, famous automobile authority, said about Chrysler in Popular Mechanics (October)

"I have tested many fine automobiles over all kinds of terrain," writes Mr. Clymer, "and in my judgment Chrysler is the best automobile manufactured in America today."

When you compare this Chrysler with the other two major cars in its price class, you will be in for an electrifying awakening. Because this is power driving as it was meant to be.

DIRKSEN WARNS OF 'SLINKING IDEOLOGY' OUT TO BLAST U.S.

DOVER, N. H. (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) warned Tuesday night that "a creeping and a sinking ideology" in the world is attempting to destroy the American system of government.

He spoke at the annual Knights of Columbus banquet.

He attacked "those moral and spiritual cripples" who address themselves to some foreign ideology. Of the country's security program he asked: "Must we wait until secrets are peddled if we have some doubt about the fidelity of persons on the public payroll?"

TOT KILLS MOTHER IN ACCIDENT

MARYSVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Four-year-old Wesley Cisco pulled a 12-gauge shotgun from a closet while his mother Mrs. Cleo Cisco slept on a couch officers said. As he dragged the gun toward her, it fired. The charge hit Mrs. Cisco from two-foot range. Wilford Cisco, the father, ran in from the back yard and rushed his wife to a hospital. She died there.

Tony Marino Loses Another Try To Avoid Deportation

CHICAGO (AP)—Convicted murderer Tony Marino, who has been on what the U. S. Supreme Court described as a "legal merry-go-round," has lost another battle in his fight against deportation.

The U. S. Court of Appeals Tuesday turned down Marino's appeal to set aside an order of the Immigration Department to deport him to his native Sicily.

Marino, 48, was convicted of murdering Charles Patterson, 77, a South Beloit, Ill., janitor, in a holdup April 24, 1925. Marino at the time was 18 and could neither speak nor understand the English language.

The following year the immigration officials asked his deportation, and since his parole from state prison in 1950 have been trying to make it stick.

Marino has contended he is innocent of the murder conviction and his constitutional rights were violated by the language barrier.

His case has been reviewed three times by the U. S. Supreme Court, twice by the Illinois Supreme Court and three times by the Circuit Court at Rockford, Ill., but the conviction held.

The U. S. Supreme Court once commented that Illinois' appeal procedure had left Marino on a legal merry-go-round.

Gov. Stratton earlier this year turned down Marino's appeal for a pardon to escape deportation.

Judge Walter J. LaBuy of the U. S. District Court refused to stop Marino's deportation when Marino appealed on the ground that his murder conviction was an injustice. Judge LaBuy's decision was upheld by the Appeals Court in a 2-1 decision Tuesday.

Appeals Judge J. Earl Major, the lone dissenter, said it was "shocking" that the immigration service should attempt to utilize such a conviction as a basis for deportation.

"I think," the dissenting judge added, "that the federal officials should renounce rather than embrace the grievous wrong which has been done Marino by Illinois officials."

Although little is known about the life-span of bald eagles, captive birds can live to be 15 years old.
